NUMECENT, INC., TECHNOLOGY LEADER IN SOFTWARE APPLICATION DELIVERY, APPOINTS BERNARD HARGUINDEGUY AS CHAIRMAN
Harguindeguy brings his expertise in technology to Numecent to focus on identifying new opportunities and initiatives.

August 21, 2017 – Irvine, CA – Numecent, Inc., a pioneer and technology leader in enterprise software application delivery, today announced the appointment of Bernard Harguindeguy to the company's Board of Directors. Numecent's award-winning and patented Cloudpaging™ platform excels in web-scale delivery of any Microsoft® Windows® application to virtual or physical desktops through virtualization and isolation, without having to stream pixels. Harguindeguy, a serial entrepreneur with over 30 years of operating experience in high-technology companies, will serve as the board's Chairman.

"Numecent is extremely fortunate to have such an avid proponent of our technology as its new board chair," commented Arthur Hitomi, CEO of Numecent. "Bernard is an experienced, influential thought leader and it is a measure of distinction for our company to have him in this role."

Harguindeguy will focus on identifying new opportunities through strategic partnerships and initiatives which enable partners (managed service providers and technology resellers) to move into the Cloud and create recurring revenues by providing outsourced Desktop-as-a-Service (DaaS.)

"Numecent's Cloudpaging technology is powerful," states Harguindeguy, the newly appointed chair. "The company has perfected the end user experience of virtualized applications while significantly decreasing the time spent by IT departments to package, manage, and deploy applications."
